Street play competition at Bloom Public school

Bloom Public School organized 'Roadside rendezvous', a street play on 16th December 2011. Street plays are effective ways of communication, approaching people directly breaking all formal barriers. They are about reaching out to the audience.

It was organized to engage the youth, to address development issues and environment issues. Our school participated in the program. A group of ten (10) children from class IX-A and X-B were selected. They addressed the issue of conversation of energy resources through a humorous street play. It was greatly appreciated and applauded by other participating schools.
